

Skilled Migration Assessment Policy

Background

Dietitians Australia (DA) has been designated by the then Minister for Immigration and Citizenship, under the Migration Regulations 1994 as the assessing authority for the occupation of Dietitian (ANZSCO Code 251111 1) since 2005.

The Australian Government's Skilled Migration program is a collaborative initiative between government and industry. The Department of Home Affairs (DHA) and the Department of Employment and Workplace Relations (DEWR), work closely with professional assessing authorities like Dietitians Australia, to ensure the skills assessment is fair, transparent, and does not create unreasonable barriers to skilled migration.

As part of the General Skills Migration visa process, suitably qualified dietitians wishing to migrate to Australia must have their skills assessed by Dietitians Australia. Based on an established assessment criterion, developed to protect the safety of the Australian public, applicants will receive an outcome of either suitable or unsuitable for practice as an Accredited Practising Dietitian (APD) in Australia.
